Your own personal concierge is only a phone call away

Take the stress out of everyday life and relax! Easier said than done? Perhaps you need a concierge. That's right. Your favourite five-star experience has now moved from your hotel to the palm of your hand.

A concierge service allows you to enjoy the finer things while they worry about the rest and it's all just a phone call away.

Luxury Home Design talked to one such company, Luxury Leisure, which offers a comprehensive service created to help cash-rich and time-poor people manage their busy lives and enjoy their leisure time fully.

Let your concierge worry about buying, wrapping and sending those special gifts, travel arrangements and getting tickets to events. Perhaps you would like to arrange a personal trainer or massage, get your house and car cleaned? You can even let them take care of your next dinner party and have them cater.

With motto 'you imagine, we deliver', the mind boggles, with managing director Sam Botros telling Luxury Home Design there's almost nothing they won't do. Sam describes one of the most quirky and spectacular requests they got — from a client wanting to propose to his girlfriend. Luxury Leisure organised for a helicopter filled with 1000 roses to hover over the lucky lady's house and drop the roses into the pool. When she came out to see what was going on, her man came out of the helicopter and got down on one knee.

Another client had seen a piece of clothing she liked on a music video and being the fashionista she was, promptly called Luxury Leisure to find it for her. Within no time at all they had the piece delivered to her door in the size and colour she wanted. Now that's service!
